Jacko Lands in Las Vegas

Where: Las Vegas, nv, United States

December 26, 2006 at 9:00 AM | by sedona | Comments \(0\)

Michael Jackson is back in the U.S. and settling in Las Vegas as we write this. Apparently, a veil-clad Jacko spent Saturday en route to Vegas from Dublin, arriving at McCarran Airport's private executive hangar at 10:30pm that evening.

He's not just visiting either. Reportedly, he's planning Vegas as his big comeback and is working on a deal to do a live show on the Strip in 2007. Gaming dealman Jack Wishna confirmed MJ's return to the States and said, "We are working on several projects." MJ's currently camped out in a new Spanish-style home on the city's west side.

Michael and his brood were last living in a castle in County Cork, Ireland, (with freak-dance star Michael Flatley) after leaving Bahrain last year. If you don't have private jet access like Jacko, reaching the UK/Ireland area from Vegas in a bit of affordable style is not as hard as it used to be: MAXjet launched its Vegas-to-London Stansted service just last month.
